Don't Longer Neglect

setting those trees you have been thinking of planting. The ground will be in the best possible condition for planting trees this spring, and you should be ready to take advantage of it. By doing so now you will be a whole year ahead on the growth of your orchard.

It is a great mistake to neglect this important matter—whether it is a commercial or family orchard you desire to plant.

There never has been a better time, nor a more promising era of prosperity for careful and industrious orchardists to realize big returns from fruit crops right here in Holt county, than the years of reward for efficiency, that lie ahead of us, and upon which we are just entering.

The Land Bank Bill.

Congress, and that the grange is unanimously in favor of the Gardner bill.

C. M. Gentry, of Ralls county, said the passage of the bill would allow a great many young men now working on farms to own farms of their own. With $500 or $600 saved up they could start at once with the provision of this bill in operation, he said. The farmers in his part of the State were hard pressed at this time and need the bill to help them, he declared.

Others who spoke in favor of the bill were: John Mayer, of Cass county; H. H. Schenk, of Scotland county; Judge S. B. Flemming, of Cass county.

J. H. Hurst, of Columbia, and a graduate of the Missouri Agricultural College, of Columbia, told the committee that the farmers in Boone county, where he conducted an investigation, were all in favor of the bill.

Bigelow and Vicinity.

George Conway in the News-Jeffersonian, says that:

—Price Lundy, who is conducting a young hospital over at his home in Arkansas neighborhood, reports his patients some better the first of the week, and he thinks they will get along all right. Grandma Amos is reported considerably better, and Mrs. Lundy and Joe Connee mending.

J. G. Hinkle installed a gasoline, hollow wire, light plant in his home one day last week. For the present but two lamps were installed; the plant is large enough to add more lamps as needed. Mr. Hinkle desired to try out the system thoroughly before installing lamps in every room of his residence.

Bigelow is badly in need of a few more houses. We are told of several families who would move here if they could find a house. At present every house in town is occupied; there are several vacant lots in town whose owners are amply able to build and there is no question but what the houses would bring a good revenue. Get busy, Mr. Vacant Lot Owner, and build a house.

—Remember how foggy the weather was Friday of last week? According to our old-time weather prophet, Henry Overly, that fog means we will have a light frost May 12. Had the fog been heavier the frost would be a killing one. If we remember right we had a hard frost about the 10th of last May that did considerable damage. Paste this in your hat: Frost, May 12, 1915.

—Charlie Lease was in town one day last week, looking just a little tiddy from his recent sick spell, but he says he is on full feed again now and will be all right for the usual spring work, of which he will no doubt find plenty, as there is always something to do on a farm and a fellow don't have to look for it either.

—George V. Hinkle attended a pure-bred Poland-China hog sale in Clarinda the latter part of last week. George is quite a hog man and has had extra good success and is expecting to keep nothing but the pure-bred stuff on his farm and will make the Poland-China hogs his specialty. He purchased a seven-hundred-pound brood sow at the sale, which is a sure dandy.

—It's about time for the spring moving to begin. James Morgan Pierpont Wilson will move over on his farm on Little Tark, north of the Kessler farm; George Cook will move on the Guy Jones place vacated by Bro. Wilson, and will work for Guy Jones this season. James Coats will work for Fred Gresham this season and will move on the J. C. Hinkle place vacated by Bro. Cook.

—George Courier, Bigelow's popular carpenter, met with a very painful accident one day last week while working on an addition to one of Lot Brown & Son's tenant houses. He was splitting a piece of wood with an axe when the piece of wood split more easily than he was expecting and almost cut off about an inch of the index finger of the left hand. Dr. Hogan patched up the finger and thinks that it will grow back on again. To date George has not taken the bandages off and says Doc might have made a mistake and placed the end of that finger on wrong side up.

—A telegram was received last Monday morning from Wymore, Neb., announcing the death at that place Sunday evening of Mrs. J. N. Green. Mrs. Lizzie Smith, a sister, and son, Joseph, and Ed. Wilson, a half-brother of Mrs. Green, left on the noon train Monday for Wymore to attend the funeral.

The Ring Ring.

What's the matter with Bigelow and Mound City people getting together and burning a ballast pit and ballast the wagon road between here and Mound City? We are told that the blackest gumbo soil makes the best ballast and there are two or three good patches near the road that could be used for a pit. We heard a Mound

City gentleman say just the other day that he had known this road for the past thirty years and enough money had been spent on it to make a first-class road out of it and still it is a poor road. Mound City has a commercial club and here is a chance for them to do something. A ballast road between here and Mound City would be a Godsend to both towns. What do you say, Mr. Commercial Club?

Modern Home.

Let Brown is having his already convenient country home fixed up as nearly modern as it is possible to have a home on this Missouri river bottom. Last week J. F. Krause, one of the best plumbers, St. Joseph, had a force of workmen putting in a bath tub and lavatory in one of the rooms on the ground floor. A large tank in a store room on the second floor of the house furnishes plenty of water, the water being forced into this tank by a large hand pump which is connected to a large cistern and also to a well, this in order that well water may be used in case the cistern goes dry. We are told that an overflow pipe was placed in the storage tank upstairs, for the express purpose of giving Mr. Brown a chance to take all the exercise he wants in working the pump handle without any danger of running the tank over.

Happily Mated.

Miss Fournia E. Freed and Mr. Chas. F. Heck, the two fine young people from the Pleasant View vicinity were married at the Presbyterian manse, Wednesday evening, February 10, by Rev. E. P. Brewster. Miss Pearl Freed, a sister of the bride, acted as her attendant, and Mr. Frank Miles was the groom's best man. The ceremony was witnessed by invited guests, the young people wishing to make the affair beautifully simple. Following the short service that made the young couple husband and wife, they boarded the evening train for St. Joseph, accompanied by the attendants. Following a short visit there, Mr. and Mrs. Heck went on to several points in Nebraska.—Craig Leader, Feb. 19.
